Ever wonder what it’s like to be an airline pilot? Or how to get a job as a television journalist?

The new Virtual Apprentice series answers these questions and more for careers ranging from pop musician and author to firefighter and computer game designer. Written in a humorous and entertaining style, each informative book lets readers in grades 4 through 9 try on their dream career for a day.

With a lively tone, dynamic look, and plenty of full-color and black-and-white photographs, the Virtual Apprentice books are the perfect starting point for young adults beginning their career exploration.