

9781459842298

Daniel witnesses the aftermath of two ships crashing in his small town's canal and the discovery that people are inside one of the shipping containers.

“The accessible text naturally interweaves historical context showing parallels to centuries of migration by people in search of a better life. A timely story that shows the humanity we share and the irrationality of bigotry and hatred.” —Kirkus Reviews

NEW MIDDLE-GRADE NOVELS FROM ORCA

Jazz has finally made it into the popular crowd, but her life isn't any easier. She is trying to process why her mom left, what exactly she's feeling for a girl in her class and whether she wants to be one of the popular girls after all.

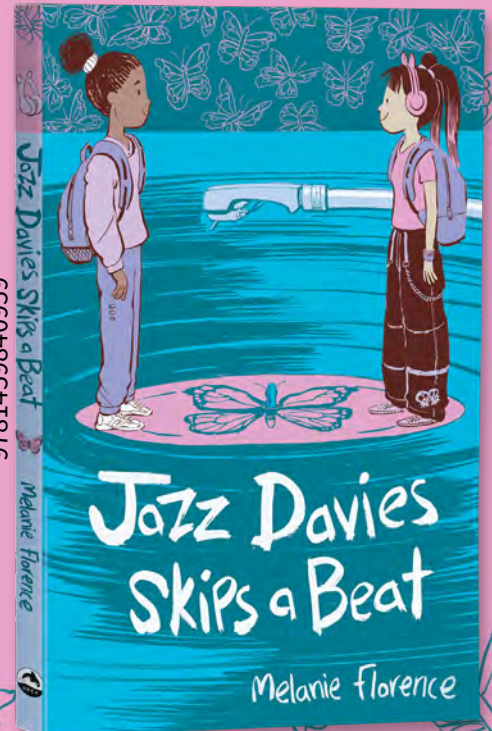

“A solid read that tackles the challenges of a tween realizing she's bisexual.”

—School Library Journal

9781459838505

9781459840959

ORCA BOOK PUBLISHERS
Reaching More Readers

Sometimes it's hard to keep your head above water.

"Offers front-row seats to the myriad of emotions someone can experience when a loved one is struggling." —School Library Journal

After his teenage brother runs away, Noah tries to be the perfect kid to keep his parents happy. But when the anxiety becomes too much, he sets off to find his brother himself.

9781459840775

NEW MIDDLE-GRADE NOVELS FROM ORCA

CAN IZZY UNMASK THE CYBER BULLY BEFORE THE CASE GETS OUT OF HAND?

9781459842366

9781459839373

"Captures the technical aspects of podcasting and journalism while also offering thoughtful takes on the value of human-created art over AI...Suspenseful pacing, compelling supporting characters, and realistic plot twists make for a welcome return to Izzy's world." —Kirkus Reviews

ORCA BOOK PUBLISHERS
Reaching More Readers